

HARRY JAMES POTTER

The Boy Who Lived (Twice). The Chosen One. Reluctant Hero For Hire.

4 Privet Drive, Little Whinging, Surrey | hpotter@owlpost.co.uk | Owl preferred

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Highly motivated wizard with 7+ years of experience surviving impossible odds, defeating dark lords on a roughly annual basis, and somehow passing standardized examinations while being actively hunted. Demonstrated ability to perform under pressure, especially when the pressure is a 60-foot snake or a man with no nose. Strong team player, provided the team includes a know-it-all and a redhead with abandonment issues. Currently seeking an opportunity that involves slightly less imminent death and slightly more weekends off.

CORE COMPETENCIES

- Patronus Charm (corporeal, stag-shaped, very photogenic)
- Conversational Parseltongue (involuntary, but it pays the bills)
- Crisis management (annual, ages 11 through 17)
- Quidditch, Seeker position (former youngest in a century)
- Death evasion (advanced)
- Defense Against the Dark Arts instruction (taught it at 15)
- Horcrux identification and destruction
- Stealth operations (Invisibility Cloak certified)
- Cross-species diplomacy: centaurs, goblins, house-elves, giants

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS

- 1981: Survived a direct Killing Curse from the most powerful dark wizard in modern history. Was, at the time, a baby. Awarded scar.
- 1991: Discovered I am a wizard via half-giant breaking down a coastal shack door. Immediately enrolled at elite international boarding school.
- 1992: Defeated possessed Defense Against the Dark Arts professor; recovered the Philosopher's Stone; logged first hospital wing admission.
- 1993: Slew a 50-foot basilisk in an underground chamber using a sword pulled from a hat. Destroyed first horcrux (was not yet familiar with the term).
- 1994: Conjured a corporeal stag Patronus at age 13; repelled approximately 100 dementors. Cleared godfather of all charges (semi-officially).
- 1995: Won the Triwizard Tournament. Witnessed return of Lord Voldemort. Was widely disbelieved by the press.
- 1996: Founded and led Dumbledore's Army, an underground defense training organization, in defiance of school administration.
- 1997: Skipped final year of school to hunt down soul fragments of an immortal wizard. Broke into Gringotts; rode out on a dragon.
- 1998: Ended the Second Wizarding War. Personally defeated Lord Voldemort. Briefly died. Got better.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

The Chosen One, Wizarding World

July 1981 to May 1998 (full-time, often involuntary)

- Defeated the most powerful dark wizard of the modern era. Twice. Once as an infant, again as a teenager with mediocre study habits and a complicated love life.
- Spearheaded cross-functional collaboration between humans, house-elves, centaurs, goblins, giants, merpeople, and one extremely flammable phoenix.
- Maintained a 100% personal mortality reversal rate over a 17-year operational window.

- Owned full prophecy-related KPI from inception to delivery; closed prophecy successfully in May 1998.

Triwizard Champion (Unofficial Fourth Entry), Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry

October 1994 to June 1995

- Selected by an enchanted goblet for an elite international competition I did not enter and was legally too young for.
- Successfully out-flew a Hungarian Horntail; recovered hostage from underwater settlement; navigated sentient maze containing acromantula and sphinx.
- Concluded tournament with one corpse, one resurrected supervillain, and a 1,000 galleon prize. Mixed performance review from the Ministry.
- Donated entire prize purse to a startup joke shop, which has since become the leading novelty retailer in Diagon Alley.

Founder and Lead Instructor, Dumbledore's Army, Underground Operation, Room of Requirement

October 1995 to June 1996

- Founded and scaled a clandestine defense magic training program from 0 to 28 active members in a single fiscal year, with zero budget and zero approved curriculum.
- Delivered practical instruction in Stunning, Disarming, Patronus Charm, Shield Charms, and Impediment Jinxes, in direct violation of an evil woman in pink heels.
- Led organization through pitched battle against six adult Death Eaters at the Department of Mysteries.

Captain, Gryffindor Quidditch Team, Hogwarts

September 1996 to June 1997

- Led team to Quidditch Cup victory while simultaneously running a resistance movement and taking private lessons on the soul anatomy of an immortal wizard.
- Managed a roster including two pranking redheaded twins (one of whom later lost an ear), one moody Keeper with self-esteem issues, and one strikingly competent Chaser I later married.

Active Resistance Operative and Horcrux Hunter, Self-Employed, Various Tents

August 1997 to May 1998

- Sourced, located, and destroyed seven anchors of an immortal wizard's soul, scattered across the British Isles in heavily warded locations.
- Operated entirely off-grid, off-payroll, and off the Trace, while listed on Ministry-issued Undesirable No. 1 wanted posters.
- Coordinated covert raids on the Ministry of Magic and Gringotts Bank, the latter concluding with a dragon-back exfiltration over central London.

Auror, later Head of the Auror Office, Ministry of Magic, Department of Magical Law Enforcement

1998 to Present

- Ascended to Head of the Auror Office without finishing N.E.W.T.s. References available; ask the Minister.
- Led national investigations into rogue dark wizards; reformed Auror training curriculum to reduce trainee mortality.

EDUCATION

Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, Highlands, Scotland

September 1991 to June 1997 (with one gap year for horcrux travel)

- House: Gryffindor (the Sorting Hat suggested Slytherin; we negotiated).
- O.W.L.s: Acceptable to Outstanding (would have done better with less recurring trauma).
- N.E.W.T.s: Did not technically sit. Was busy ending a war.
- Honors: Quidditch Cup, Triwizard Champion, Special Award for Services to the School (twice).

Self-Directed Study in Forest Survival and Wand Disarmament, Various Forests, United Kingdom

August 1997 to May 1998

- Field-tested theoretical knowledge of charms, transfiguration, and protective enchantments in live combat conditions.
- Co-authored (informally) a working theory of horcrux destruction with two peers.
- Final project: defeated a Dark Lord. Received no formal grade.

CERTIFICATIONS AND LICENSES

- Apparition License, United Kingdom (passed on second attempt; ask Ron about his eyebrow).
- Horcrux Detection and Destruction (self-certified; only practitioner with verified 7-of-7 record).
- Defense Against the Dark Arts Instructor (informal; 28 students placed).
- Animagus Identification (informal; identified Sirius Black, Peter Pettigrew, and Rita Skeeter).
- Broom Operation, Class A (Nimbus 2000 and Firebolt rated).

AWARDS AND HONORS

- Order of Merlin, First Class, for services rendered to the wizarding world (1998).
- Special Award for Services to the School, awarded twice, which is unusual.

- Quidditch Cup, Gryffindor, as Seeker (1994) and as Captain (1997).
- Witch Weekly's Most Charming Smile, Top 50, 1995 (declined politely).

- Subject of approximately 14 unauthorized biographies, including Harry Potter: A Hero in Training by R. Skeeter (largely fabricated).

LANGUAGES

- English: Native. Surrey accent; slight tendency to mumble.
- Parseltongue: Fluent (former). Acquired involuntarily at age 1; voluntarily decommissioned in 1998.
- Mermish: Conversational. Underwater only; useless above sea level.
- Gobbledegook: Polite small talk. Sufficient to negotiate Gringotts entry; insufficient to negotiate Gringotts exit.

- Sword of Gryffindor: basilisk-venom coated; pulls out of hats when needed.
- Resurrection Stone: briefly held; left in a forest, intentionally.

SKILLS SELF-ASSESSMENT

Honest self-evaluation across the Hogwarts curriculum, scored out of 10.

- Defense Against Dark Arts: 10/10. Taught it. Lived it. Survived it.
- Quidditch (Seeker): 10/10. Caught a Snitch in my mouth once.
- Charms: 8/10. Reliable. Flitwick gave a thumbs up.
- Transfiguration: 7/10. Solid, if uninspired. McGonagall expected more.
- Care of Magical Creatures: 8/10. Hagrid bias acknowledged.
- Herbology: 6/10. Competent with mandrakes, allergic to gillyweed.
- Potions: 4/10. Improved dramatically with the Half-Blood Prince's annotations.
- Astronomy: 5/10. Constellations memorized; motivation, not.
- History of Magic: 3/10. Stayed awake on four separate occasions.
- Divination: 1/10. Subject is questionable. So is Trelawney.
- Wizard Chess: 3/10. Ron handles this department.
- Patience: 6/10. Improving. Slowly. Under duress.
- Cooking (Muggle): 7/10. Aunt Petunia drilled this in via fear.

VOLUNTEER WORK AND COMMUNITY SERVICE

- Founding Instructor, Dumbledore's Army. Pro bono Defense Against the Dark Arts instruction to 27 fellow students, 1995 to 1996. No fees collected.
- Major Donor, Weasleys' Wizard Wheezes. Donated 1,000 galleons in seed funding. Rate of return: spiritual.
- House-Elf Liberation Advocate. Personally manumitted at least one house-elf via sock-based loophole; ongoing supporter of S.P.E.W.
- Hippogriff Defense Counsel. Provided unpaid character witness services in Ministry v. Buckbeak, 1994.
- Father Christmas Stand-In. Volunteer assistant at one (1) Weasley family Christmas, 1992; results were broadly positive.

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION (EXCERPTS)

"Harry is, without question, one of the bravest young men I have ever had the privilege to know. He is also reliably late to breakfast, but I find that to be a charming and deeply human flaw."

- Albus Dumbledore, former Headmaster (deceased; portrait available)

"Potter has the natural flying ability of his late father and roughly half of his common sense. He is, however, extraordinarily loyal, exceptionally courageous, and the only student in living memory to bring me to tears at a graduation that did not technically occur."

- Minerva McGonagall, Head of Gryffindor House

"Harry is one of the two most important people in my life. He is also incapable of remembering to read a book before doing the thing the book would have warned him about. Hire him anyway."

- Hermione Granger, Minister of Magic

"Harry's a great lad. Great lad. Yeh won't find a better one. He'll do righ' by yeh. Don' make him cross, mind."

- Rubeus Hagrid, Hogwarts Groundskeeper

"The boy is arrogant, reckless, and irritatingly reminiscent of his father. He is also, reluctantly, capable. Hire him if you must. Do not seat him near a cauldron."

- Severus Snape, former Potions Master (deceased; complicated)

REFERENCES

- Hermione Granger, Minister of Magic. Will respond within 24 hours and follow up twice.

- Ron Weasley, Auror, Ministry of Magic. Will respond eventually, probably while eating.
- Minerva McGonagall, Headmistress, Hogwarts. Tartan-clad, takes no nonsense, very fair.
- Rubeus Hagrid, Hogwarts Groundskeeper. Warm, slightly biased, weeps during reference calls.
- Albus Dumbledore, former Headmaster. Deceased; portrait at Hogwarts; replies cryptically.

INTERESTS AND HOBBIES

Treacle tart (compulsively); brooding by rain-streaked windows (medium intensity); naming future children after deceased mentors; narrowly avoiding death (recreational, since 1998); Quidditch (spectator, mostly); long walks in the Forbidden Forest (do not recommend); and reading bedtime stories featuring slightly fictionalized versions of myself.

References, certifications, and the occasional Patronus available on request. I solemnly swear that I am up to no good.
